DICKINSON BACK IN CHARGE.

THE ALLIANCE IN GEORGIA AND ITS RELATION TO THE DEMOCRACY.

By No Means to be Counted in the Susper of the Third Party Candidates-Appeal to German-Americans-Stevenson's Plans,

Don M. Dickinson, who has been ill for more than a week at the residence of his brother in Bay Ridge, was in charge at Democratic headquarters yesterday and had a bulletin issued which indicated that it is his purpose, his health permitting, to direct the work of the Campaign Committee in this city until election day. The bulletin went on to state that, while Mr. Dickinson is a member of the subcommittee having charge of the Western campaign, with headquarters at Chicago, he is empowered to designate a representative to act for him there. The bulletin was issued because stories emanating from Republican sources have been published to the effect that Mr. Dieginson was to be banished to Chicago, while Mr. Harrity, with the advice and assist ance of Mr. Whitney, would have general charge of the canvass.

Mr. Dickinson plunged into the mass of correspondence which had accumulated and also paid a visit to Gen. Stevenson at the Hoffman House and had a long consultation with him regarding the situation in Illinois. Later, Mr. Stevenson returned the visit and spent an hour at national headquarters. Secretary Sheerin and National Committeeman Smalley of Vermont were also on duty vesterday Chairman Harrity is expected to return from Pennsylvania to-day.

Major A. C. Bacon, ex-Speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives, is here in response to a request from the National Committee for his aid in the presecution of the Southern campaign.

There is no reasonable doubt of the succeas of the Democratic party in the Presiden-tial election in Georgia," said he. "There is more political interest and activity in the State than there has been at any time in the past twenty years. The present activity is largely than there has been at any time in the past twenty years. The present activity is largely due to the organization of what is generally known as the Thord party. That party has put out a full State tieket, has nominated Presidential Electors, and in most, if not all of the districts, has nominated candidates for the districts. There is much popular misapprehension in the sacross and state elections.

Thore is much popular misapprehension in the North as to the position of the Alliance men with reference to the Democratic and Third parties. It is a mistake to suppose that the Alliance, taken either as an organization or in the aggregate of its membershin, is against the Democratic party. Fortunately a very large proportion, if not a majority, of the Alliance men in the State, and those connected with agricultural pursuits, are still loyal to the Democratic party, and will vote with it in the approaching election, both national and State. In three or lour tongress districts the context between the nominee of the Democrate and the nominee of the Third or Propel's Party will be very close, and the result cannot be predicted with certainty at this time, although the Democratic party and elected. Of these six, four have remained true to the Democratic party, and there of the se four, although still avowed Alliance men were nominated by the Democratic party and elected. Senator Voorhees of Indiana, who has been resting at New Rochelle for several days, will leave to-morrow morning for Indiana by way of Washington. Next week he is to speak with Gen. Stevenson at Vincennes. "It will be a monster meeting," said the Senator yesterday.

We have the heart, the good feeling, the organization that mean victory. when we were in such good shape this early in the campaign as we are in Indiana to-day. "I have no doubt of the success of our pational ticket in Indiana. When I came East i confess that I was troubled by fears about New York. But having passed several days in the State and noted the temper of the Democracy. I go home feeling well assured that the thirty-six electoral votes of New York will be cast for Cieveland and Stevenson."

Adlai E. Stevenson will leave this morning for his home at Bloomington. Ill., where he is to open the campaign on Saturday. Next week he will address several large meetings in Indiana, and on Sept. 2 he may attend a barbecue given in his honor near Herndon. Ry. The country schoolhouseln which a Kentucky pedagogue used to warm the jacket of the Vice-Presidential candidate is still standing, and he is expected to eat barbecued meat and make a speech within its waits.

On Sept. 15 he goes to North Carolina to make six speechas. On Oct. I he has promised to address a meeting at Woodside Park. O., which is to be presided over by ex-tiov. Campbell. Last evening Mr. Stevenson was asked what he thought of the outlook in the East. He replied that he had not heard one discouraging word.

"Everything is going as it should," he said, "and I could not ask for a better condition of affairs. The National Committee is working with energy and tact. There are no divisions among the leaders, and the masses are enthusiastic. As to the West, I have very little doubt that we shall carry Indiana and Wisconsin, with good chance for several other northwestern States.

"All I can say of the prospect in Illinois is this: The conditions are such that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans feel warranted in declaring what the vote will be next November. CHAIRMAN CARTER HARD AT WORK The Influence of W. W. Dudley-Senato Sanders Has a Grievauer,

If it were possible to pass the colored guards who stand watch at the wire-latticed barriers which bar all passage to the upper floors at the Republican National headquarters and to pentrate to a certain room on the topmost floor t is said that the outsider who should perform this feat would see a man bustly engaged in operating a telegraph key or listening atten lively to the click of a sounder connected with a special wire.

This special wire is said to furnish the inspiration to Chairman Thomas Henry Carter in his conduct of the Republican campaign The other end of this wire is somewhere in the neighborhood of Washington, and the report is tout William W. Dudley is not far from it at any time.

Among the visitors Mr. Carler received yesterday was Gov. McKinley of Ohio. The Governor also saw Secretary McComas and Gen. Clarkson. Mr. McKinley was informed that he was in great demand for campaign speeches, and that there is hardly a State in the Union which has not called for at least one speech from him. He said that he hoped to take an active part in the campaign, and would speak wherever the committee desired. Regarding the situation is as favorable as we have any right to expect. Senator Wilbur F. Sanders of Montana was also a visitor at boadquarters. He is one of the sixteen third States Senators who went to Minneapolis bitterly opposed to the renomination of Harrison, and he is said not to be quite placated yet. Senator Banders has a bone to pick with Chairman Carter. Mr. Sanders is the short-term Senator from Montana, and Mr. Carter is said to have more than an ordinary longing to succeed him. To further his interest in this regard the Benutlican Chairman is said to have ignored a request for money made by the Chairman of the Republican State Committee of Montana, who is a frieudof Senator Sanders, and to have sent the needed sum instead to one of his lieutenants for disturber the interests of the present Senator. No news regarding an interview on this subject was made public through Mr. Quigg's press bureau.

Chairman Carter announced that many callers yesterday were from the Southern States, and that they furnished him with glowing accounts of the possibility of Republican success there through Democratic disaffection. They said they wanted Whitchaw Reid and Gov. McKinley, James F. Burke. President of the College League of Republican Clubs, who accompanied Whitelaw Reid on his Western trin, returned yesterday. The trip, he said, and its results were eminently gratifying, both to the Western leaders and to Mr. Reid.

William M. Hahn, who is to have charge of the speakers bureau at headquarters, arrived from Ohio yesterday afternoon.

The campaign managers were greatly disturbed yesterday over the information that the administration of the Indian Bureau of the interior Department is being used as a campaign argument against the redection of Harrison, and that a circular denouncing it is being distributed extensively among Roman Catholic ciercymen. The document in question is the report of the Rev. Father Stephan. Secretary of the Roman Catholic bureau for the education of the Indians, to Bishop Marty of South Dakota, President of the bureau.

District Committees Have Been Created to Sult the New Aportlonment. Tammany Hall

nmittee of Thirty met at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and prepared for the complete reorganization of Tammany on the basis of the new apportionment of the city. Every Assembly district was represented, the six new leaders being present for the first time. Reports were received to the offect that all the district committees have been reorganized, and it was decided to call a meeting of the new Committee on Organiza tion for Sept. 7 and of the new General Com-meeting of the new Committee on Organization for Sept. 7 and of the new General Committee for Sept. 9. The Committee of Thirty will be called together probably on Sept. 6. On committees as at present constituted.

President James J. Martin of the Police Commission, reported that all of the election inspector blanks had been filled in and submitted, and gave notice that the list of poll and leader, on which he is to submit the names of the Democrats in his district whom he desires

The Executive Committee of the County Democracy met at the headquarters of the organization in Cooper Union yesterday afteroon to discuss the preliminaries of the meetnoon to discuss the preliminaries of the meeting of the County Committee, which wifl meet in Cooper Union this evening.

It was decided to submit to the general body a proposition to amend the constitution by abolishing the present system of election district primaries so as to make it possible to nominate and eject delegates at primaries held in the Assembly districts. As it would be a difficult matter to find County Democrats enough to hold a primary in a large number of the election districts, it is thought that the amendment will provail.

The Republican Factional Fight in Syracuse. SYRACUSE, Aug. 22.-Republican caucuses for the election of county, Assembly, and Judicial delegates are to be held here on Wednesday from 11 to 1 o'clock, and the Congress Convention is called for noon of the same day. In calling the caucuses the Hiscock-Hendricks people, who are in control of the City Committee, refused to make any qualifications for voters, but simply passed a resolution requir-voters, but simply passed a resolution requiring challenged electors to prove their right to vote to the antisfaction of a majority of the Boards of Inspectors.

The Beiden men claim that under the law the committee could not delegate the power to fix qualifications, and this morning they procured from Justice Williams of Watertown, an order requiring the inspectors to show cause to-morrow afternoon why they should not be enjoined from rejecting the votes of properly qualified electors. The conflict between the caucuses and the Congress Convention was arranged with the idea of embarrassing and dividing the Belden forces.

DID HE CUT HER DRESS? THE MAN ARRESTED SAYS MISS BROWN

HAS MADE A MISTAKE. She Dreinres She is Positive That Alexander I. Brown is the Miscrenat-Ris Explanation of How His Pinger was Cut.

Augustus L. Brown, the engraver, of 80 Nassau street, who was arrested in a Ninth avenue elevated train on Saturday night on complaint of Miss Lalla Brown, a pretty young cloak model, who accused him of cutting her dress into shreds, was arraigned yesterday morning at Jefferson Market. Miss Brown was on hand to prosecute and to a reporter she said she intended to press the complaint. The prisoner's wife was also in court. Lawyer Me Clelland, who appeared for Brown, said that his client was innocent, but that he was not quite rendy to go on with the case. He asked for an adjournment, and Justice Waite set the examination down for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

"I am positive he is the man who cut my dress," said Miss Brown yesterday. "There who could have done it. The dress, which was a new one, was of Bedford cord, and it was the first time wore it. I am certain that it was not cut when I got on the train, and there can be no doubt that the tugs I felt were caused by that man cutting my gown. No one else in the car was near enough to me to do such a thing without some one seeing him. He stood in such a position that his hand was concelled beween us, and he could work away easily. I was never more certain of anything in my life When arrested Brown refused to say anything beyond that he was innocent. He is small man. He appeared to be very indignant when led into court yesterday morning. He when led into court resterday morning. He would say nothing at first, but when the case had been adjourned until Thursday he consented to talk to The Sur reporter.

"My arrest," said he, "was an outrage, and the charge against me simply preposterous.
The car was crowded at the time, and I was returning home after a hard day's work. I was so absorbed in my newspaper that I didn't even notice the young woman when she entered the car. I was totally unaware of her presence until she grabbed me and shouted, 'Did you do this?'
I asked her what she meant, not having the slightest idea at the time what was the matter. When she showed me her torn dress I protested that I knew nothing about it, but just the same I was should off the train to the station house. After an examination the Sergeant became convinced that I was innohustled off the train to the station house. After an examination the Sergeant became convinced that I was innocent, and was about to access a leavent let me go when a policeman noticed that my finger was bleeding and tried to connect that with the fact that there was blood on the young woman's dress, near the part which was cut. This evidence, purely circumstantial as it was, was deemed suindient by the Sergeant to look me up, and I spent the rest of the night in a cell.

"That cut on my finger was made by a sharp engraving tool with which I was working on Saturday afternoon. The tool slipped. I staunched the flow of blood at the time. When we entered the station house the wound began to bleed again. I have nothing to say against Miss Brown, except that she has made a great mistake, and has subjected an innocent man to disgrace and imprisonment. I don't propose to try to figure out how the young woman's dress was cut, but I think it is possible that it may have been caught on something or that it was torn while she was in the crowd going up the station steps, or maybe in entering the car at Desbrosses street, where she got on. Just before the train reachel Fourteenth street a man who had been standing near me, and not three feet from the young woman, moved to the rear end of the car, and when the train stopped got off. If Miss Brown's dress was maliciously cut as she declares, he was the man who did it. I'm sure."

When Lawyer McClelland first entered court yesterday morning he suid that Brown's finger had been cut on the shield of the policeman who arrested him. Brown had resisted arrest, the lawyer said, and during the struggle his finger had run across a sharp edge of the shield. The policeman who made the arrest said that story wasn't true. Brown had protested against arrest, he declared, but had not struggled a bit. When Brown was asked about his lawyer's version he corroborated the policeman's story. Later lawyer McClelland, in speaking of the cut, gave the same version as his client. He explained it has covered it.

Late yesterday afternoon Brown and his lawyer told the reporter that the cut had been made by an instrument something like a chisel, with which Mr. Brown was putting up a shelf in his office on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Brown's office boy, told the same story. Miss Brown's tattered dress and undereiothing have been carefully examined, and the police have come to the conclusion that they were not cut with a knife, but with scissors.

A despatch to THE SUN, published yesterday made known that Louise Adela Valdis, the Saturday night in Saratoga, to William H. Wilson, an attaché of the Forepaugh show. The news was a great surprise to circus per formers and variety people in this city, and they gossipped about it last night. The Valdis Sisters, Louise and Lizzle, have been travelling, since the circus season opened, with the Forepaugh outfit. They are said by experts to be the eleverest and most daring women trapezists in the world, and are noted as having originated many new things in the aerial business, among them being the revolving Louise is the elder of the sisters, and is a quiet, plain-looking girl of about 30. She has reddish hair, a profusion of freekles, features slightly awry, and is muscular and finely formed. In their thrilling trappe are the does the harder part of the work, swinging Lizzie by a strap held between her teeth and doing all the catching besides. Lizzie was married some years may to J. H. The ceremony was performed late at night at the Spencer House by an Engagement of all the circus people until Sanday.

The Valdises are known to be wealthy. Two or three sensons ago they managed their own vandeville company, and before that they had scidom worked for less than $250 a week. During one of their trips the sisters separated, owing, as it was then claimed, to the interference of their mother, who was displeased by the marriage of Lizzic and Allen.

The Valdis sisters are natives of Lincolnshite, England, and their parents were noted gymnasts twenty years ago. The girls began as acrobats before they were seven, and in 1871, billed as the "Persian Sisters," they appeared at Nido's in "The Black Crook." Afterward they travelled with the Kiralfy troupes. Their father, an expert rife shot, was killed in an accident at the Coliseum Theatre, Chicago, in 1878. After that the girls performed under their mother's direction.

TO RECEIVE THE COLUMBUS STATUE.

Italians to Go Down the Bay, and a Rig Time at the Corner Stone Laying. The Italian transport Garigliano, which is bringing over the Columbus statue, is due nere on Sept. 2. She left Spezia, Italy, on Aug. 11 and was reported from Gibraltar six days

It was the original intention of the Committee of One Hundred in charge of the Columbus celebration to go down the bay and meet the Garigliano and escort her to the city, but this plan has been abandoned.

A few days ago Consul General Riva wrote to Mayor Grant on behalf of the Italian Government, expressing the wish that no particular attention be paid to the transport, and that all ceremonies be deferred until the arrival later of the Italian cruiser Bausan. In accordages with this request it is probable that no United States ships will go down the bay to neet the Garlgliano, as was intended. The Italians, however, will meet her and will fill the town with bright uniforms and the air with martial music for several days after. They have not made definite arrangements for their celebration yet. They have decided to go down the bay with a small fleet of steamers. One steamboat will be reserved for the committee, which numbers 125.

There will be at least two others for members of the Italian colony. President Carlo Barsotti will welcome the Captain of the fransport, and the steamboats will accompany her up the bay. As arranged at present the monument will be unloaded at one of the marble yards at Cerlear's Hook.

As soon after this as possible, probably not more than four or five days, the blocks of the monument will be transported from the marble yard to the site at Eighth avenue and Fitty ninth street. This will be made the occasion of a big Italian display. The blocks will be loaded on gayly decorated and bellagged wagons, which will be escorted by uniformed Italian societies and Italian civilians afoot and in carriages.

It is expected that 2,000 men will turn out. On arrival at the site the corner stone of the monument will be laid. They have not made definite arrangements

It is expected that 2,000 men will turn out. On arrival at the site the corner stone of the monument will be laid. This will be a ceremony of some importance. The Columbus Celebration Committee will be present, together with representatives of the city Government. They will be there as guests, however, and not as participants.

That will be the Italians' own day. No definite plans will be decided upon until after the arrival of the monument.

On Oct. 12, after the big military parade, the Italians will formally turn over the statue to the city and Mayor Grant will receive it.

Bull Fight in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 22.-Considerable omment has been caused in this city by the reported intention of the State Fair managers to have a bull fight as an attraction at the coming exhibition. Col. Hawkins, President of the Fair, says that a proposition has been made to the officials for a first-class fight, in made to the officials for a first-class fight, in which professional matadors from Mexico and Spain will take part. One of the men, he says will be a celebrated fighter. An enclosure thirty feet high will be erected for the fight, and the seats will be arranged in a circle, as in the Mexicon rings. The bulls will be brought from Mexico and pretured for the occasion. It is understood that Col. Hawkins has almost completed the arrangements, and that the affair is to be run as a side show, at an extra price of admission. There is considerable opposition, however, in certain circles, and it is likely that there will be a lively controversy. troversy.

M'GUIRE SOLD THE WARRANT

WHEN STEIN PICKED HIM OUT HE ACCUSED TAILOR DANZIGER.

Juntice Goetting Says He Has Disgraces the Legal Profession, and Can Proscente Another Case to That Court. Nathan Stein, a peddler of 169 Norfolk street.

New York, complained to Justice Goetting in the Lee Avenue Police Court, Williamsburgh about a week ago that a well-dressed man. who was in the corridor of the Court House, had swindled him out of fifty cents by giving him a bogus warrant. Stein was directed to go to court every day by Justice Goetting until he discovered the man who swindled him. Lawyer Thomas McGuire of the Fourteenth ward of Brooklyn was pointed out on Saturday by Stein. He emphatically denied to Justice Goetting that he had swindled Stein, and accured Henry Danziger, a tailor, of 60 Roebling the warfant to the effect that Danziger had swindled Stein. Danziger was accessed yesterday morning at his home despite his protestations of innocence. When he was arraigned in court he told such a straightforward story that Justice Goetting discharged him and called McGuire to the bar.

"Counsellor McGuire," said Justice Goetling. "I have this to say to you. As long as I sit in this court I will submit to no such shyster practices. You have disgraced the noble profession to which you belong. I shall not insist upon a complaint being made against you in this matter, because I think it will be enough junishment to you, without having you arrested, that hereafter you will not be allowed to appear as prosecutor on the part of the people in this court or before me. I do not give this decision without having consulted with the District Altorney, who is in sympathy with me in declaring that no lawyer who have done as you have done shall represent him for the people in any prosecution. I repeat that while I am on the bench I will do altin my power to provent such shyster-like practices."

Metiuire interrupted Justice Goetting by asking if the Court meant to apply all the terms of opprobrium it had use! to bim.

"I do most certainly," said the Justice, "and to others who are guilty of it."

"Then your Honor finds me guilty of this offence," said Metiuire.

"I do, but I believe it not to be necessary to have a warrant issued against you, believing that the disgrace upon you and upon the profession is sufficient," replied Justice Goetting. McCuire was also ordered to return to Stein fifty cents. He hadn't the money and Justice Goetting gave him an hour in which to get it. A friendly lawyer gave McGuire the necessary fifty cents, which he handed to Stein and then left the court.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS.

The Transcontinental Association. Sr. Louis, Aug. 22.-Gould lines will not be represented at the general meeting of the Transcontinental Association in New York on Wednesday. Freight Traffic Manager Parker of the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain said to-day: "We notified Chairman Vining that we believed the Transcontinental Associ that we believed the Transcontinental Association's headquarters in St. Louis was the proper place to call this meeting. We are opposed, on general principles, to an association meeting away from its headquarters, and in this instance, with the rush of the grain and cotton business upon our hands, we could not spare the time to go down to the Atlantic seaboard for a discussion of rate problems. The Transcontinental headquarters are centrally located, and yet it is the exception and not the raile to call meetings here. The Missouri Pacific, it will be remembered, cast a negative vote against the proposition of the Southern Pacific to reduce all rail rates West and East bound, for the purpose of meeting the water competition of the Clipper lines, taking the ground that such competition was directed against the Southern Pacific slocal rates to California points. At the meeting on Wednesday the Pacific mail subsidy and the notice of withdrawal of the Rio Grande Western will be acted upon in addition to the Southern Pacific troubles.

Signs of t Fight for Control of Wabash,

It has not been generally known that there policy of the company among the directors of the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific Railway, and the news that there will probably be a con and the news that there will probably be a contest at the next annual election on Sept.

What is still more surprising is the story that Mr. George Gould is endeavoring to secure the voting control of a majority of the stock in order to defeat the election of President Ossian D. Ashley and one or two of the directors who have not always been in harmony with his views. He is said already to have begun to solicit proxies and to borrow their names. their names.

In the Union Pacific campaign, which Mr. George Gould so successfully managed, he did not begin work until a few days before the election. The result in that case was said to have been obtained by the expenditure of a round sum, and Wall street will watch with interest the fight that has begin for control of interest the fight that has begun for control of

The new road will be known as the Arlington branch of the Washington and Southern Railroad, which is also a branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will also in the near future construct a line from Washington to Mt. Vernon.

President Roberts Will Not be Deposed. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22-Frank Thomson First Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Bailroad, this afternoon said that the published reports of a probable change in the Presidency reports of a probable change in the Presidency of the Pennsylvania Railroad were without the slightest foundation, and that President Roberts had gone to Lurope for needed rest after thirteeb years of incessant work and continuous responsibility in his present position at the head of the company. Mr. Thomson further stated that he had reason to know that the innortant foreign shareholders were satisfied with the present management of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Will Affect Canadian Pacific Freight, WEST SUPERIOR, Wis. Aug. 22.-James Hickey, Canadian Inspector of Customs, said yesterday: "The retaliation tolls at the Soo" Canal will affect the Canadian Pacific road.

Canal will affect the Canadian Pacific read. The tell on package freight and coal is prohibitive. Instead of going to Port Arthur, freight and coal will come to the head of the lake, and will be sent west over the Northern Pacific and Great Northern lines. Flour shipments east for Canadian consumption will also be greatly affected. The wheat trade will not suffer, as the tell is a very small proportion of the carrying charges. The most serious effect will be upon Canadian Pacific." Another Move in the Game.
